News of Municipal Administration Given Briefly and to the Point for Eagle Readers.

Useful Information, Interesting Facts and Personal Gossip Tensely Told by One Who Knows.

NEW STREET SIGNS.

Within a few months City Electrician William Carroll hopes to have street signs at every intersection in the district bounded by Chicago avenue, Halsted and 12th streets and the lake. Competitive bids will be advertised for in a few days for signs at each intersection to be placed on the northeast corner. No specifications will be made in advertisements as to the size, shape or material of the signs, and the city hopes in this way to get a large number of ideas, as well as bids. From the suggestions the most practical plan will be adopted. The signs will be placed in the downtown district, where the need is most pressing.

ROGERS PARK WANTS PATROL.

Mayor Busse, Fire Chief Horan and Chief of Police Shippy went to Rogers Park Monday and inspected the combination police station and fire engine house. The visit was in response to repeated requests from the residents of the suburb for better police service. There are no patrol or alarm boxes in the suburb, and the station has no patrol wagon. The patrol boxes will be installed at once, but the suburb will have to wait several months for a patrol wagon.

TELLS OF A BURIED TREASURE.

Connecticut Man Says He Knows Where It Can Be Found.

William E. Moore of Meriden, Conn., has written to a Pittsburg newspaper telling of the mysterious hiding in the suburbs of Paris of $100,000 in gold, which was stolen from a wealthy Pittsburg woman. Moore is confident that he can show her where to get her money back. He is now working in a cafe in Meriden. "The money was stolen from the woman, whose name I can't mention, by her butler," said Moore. "For reasons known only to herself the Pittsburg woman had gathered together 500,000 francs in gold and she and her butler, who was a confidential servant, buried the money. Some time later the butler went to the place, dug up the money and reburied it in a place known only to himself. The woman was unable to reveal the theft to the police, because she did not wish them to know anything about the matter. In 1890 I met the butler in Paris and he gave me a map of the place where the treasure is. He died in a London hospital in 1901."

SPECK VON STERNBERG DEAD.

Lupus Causes End of Ambassador, Who Represented Kaiser.

Baron von Sternberg, German ambassador to the United States, died early Monday. He was born in Leeds, England, Aug. 21, 1852. Death occurred in the Hotel Victoria, in Heidelberg, Germany. The baroness, who was Miss Lilian May Langham of Louisville, Ky., was with her husband at the end. The baron and the baroness, who left America May 10, went to Heidelberg to consult with Prof. Vincenz Czerny, a skin specialist, concerning a malady from which the ambassador has been suffering for some time. After a prolonged examination of the diseased part on the left side of Baron von Sternberg's head Prof. Czerny affirmed that the trouble was not cancer, but a lupus, and that he could cure it. Both the ambassador and his wife were immensely cheered at this opinion. It had been arranged that Baron von Sternberg should go to Berlin the middle of September to be received in audience by Emperor William previous to his return to Washington. It was thought desirable that the ambassador be at his post during the concluding weeks of the presidential campaign. The baron was regarded as a brilliant diplomat. He had been ambassador at Washington since July, 1903. The experience of Baron von Sternberg was a tragic one. He caught an infection of the face, the nature of which physicians did not seem clearly to understand, during his service for the Kaiser in India, the land of deadly disease. It spread well over one side of his face. He made a brave fight from the start, appealing to the foremost medical authorities of this country and Europe for aid, and his plucky effort to prevent the disease from spoiling his diplomatic career won the keen sympathy of Washington people. Baron von Sternberg was sent to Washington because of his close personal friendship with President Roosevelt. He married the beautiful Miss Langham of Kentucky.
